IS WELL KNOWN CENTRAL STATE COLLEGE EDUCATOR

C. C. Barnes, dean of men and registrar at Central State Teachers college, Mt. Pleasant, will deliver the commencement address at Grayling high school Thursday evening, June 10.

Registrar Barnes has spoken before audiences which have ranged from one-room rural schools to great metropolitan gatherings. He has delivered commencement addresses in many score Michigan high schools and in several colleges of the state. His speaking experiences have included preaching, radio appearances, addresses before national gatherings and talks on a great variety of other occasions.

He has been registrar at Central State for the past 16 years, coming to this campus 17 years ago as head of the commerce department. He had served in that latter capacity at Ferris institute for 7 years previously. Among the many honors conferred on him have been the presidency of the Michigan Association of Registrars, the presidency of the Taft Highway Beautification association, and the treasurership of the Michigan Education association.

His speaking calendar is constantly crowded, six high schools seeking him this spring for a single commencement date.

Bottling Co. Doing Good Business

MANY IMPROVEMENTS MADE IN LOCAL PLANT

A visit to the Nehi Bottling Co. plant, owned and operated by Carl W. Peterson, revealed a splendid improvement in new equipment and operating arrangements. This busy place, sparkling with case after case of bottled beverages, was a hive of industry.

A latest model of bottling machine was busy filling and capping bottles, the bottles packed into cases and cases piled high in the storage room, ready to be hauled away by trucks to dealers everywhere within the five counties that make up the Grayling district.

And all this time a couple of young men were busy placing used empty bottles on an endless carrier that takes them thru the most cleansing bottle washer one may imagine. Hot water scalds the bottles both inside and outside and they come out clean and sparkling.

Nehi beverages come in ten different flavors, each made up from formulas prepared by the Nehi Company of Columbus, Georgia. These are the finest that research has been able to compound for the use of the thirsty public.

Par-T-Pak is another brand and comes in 7 different flavors. Royal Crown Cola is a new brand on the market and has received the finest endorsements of expert judges. Among the latter is one by the Good Housekeeping Magazine, which says "Tested and Approved—serial No. 4897—Good Housekeeping Bureau."

This Company enjoys a fine trade and Mr. Peterson says that indications are that their business is going to be considerably larger than it has ever been in the past. Those of us who know Mr. Peterson know that any business that he may operate will be managed in a competent and an orderly manner. The plant reflects his characteristic cleanliness and good management. His products are on the market everywhere within his territory and customers are going to be assured of the finest quality of beverages, all produced under the most sanitary conditions.

R. Hill Appointed To Naval Academy

Robert M. Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Hill of this city, is the lucky young man for having been appointed to the Naval academy at Annapolis. The good news came Sunday in a letter written by Congressman Roy O. Woodruff who secured for him the appointment. All that is necessary now is for him to pass the intelligence and physical tests and in these, Congressman Woodruff says, there is little doubt about his success.

Robert is a student at Michigan State College, Lansing. We congratulate this young man on his opportunity to secure the education and training such a position provides.

IZAIAK WALTON MEETING

The next monthly meeting of the Izaak Walton chapter will be held Tuesday night, June 8th, at 8:00 o'clock at the Courthouse. Everyone should make it a point to be present as the matter of the annual Canoe Carnival will be discussed; the water level of Lake Margrethe will be taken up, also action on the petition to open nearby lakes to winter spearing.

Watch next week's edition for further details.

The last parade of the Grand Army of the Republic at the close of their convention in Washington, D. C. as the aged veterans of the Civil war marched through the streets as they did more than seventy years ago.

Junior Prom Lovely Party

Friday, May 21st was a red-letter day to the members of the Junior class when they held the annual J-Hop honoring the graduating class of 1937.

The gym had been tastefully decorated for the occasion with an outdoor scene complete to the last detail. With a star-studded sky overhead, pine trees surrounding the dancing floor, and even the man in the moon giving the wink to the merry-makers, a large crowd enjoyed themselves to the utmost and went home declaring it was one of the finest balls of recent years.

The grand march, highlight of the evening's fun, was led by Ruth Benware, president of the Junior class, and Ervin Cady, president of the Senior class.

Iverson's Melodiers of Lake City furnished the music for the occasion and contributed much to the evening's gaiety.

The crowd, while quite large, was orderly and well behaved, and they deserve to be complimented for not destroying the decorations.

All in all it was a grand party and the Juniors and their sponsors, Miss Dorr and Miss Tumath, have reason to feel proud of the results of their efforts.

Public Mass Meeting

SHALL WE HAVE A C. OF C. OR—WHAT?

Shall we organize a chamber of commerce, hire a full-time secretary or part-time secretary, or shall we continue as we have been doing, without doing anything in the way of community promotion?

These are pertinent questions and should be answered by the people and not have to be decided by a few interested persons. Mass Meeting At Courthouse June 1

A mass meeting is hereby called to be held at the Courthouse on Tuesday evening, June 1 at 8:00 o'clock. No matter what may be your business or occupation, we believe it is the duty of everyone, men and women alike, and local organizations, interested in the welfare and progress of our city to attend this meeting and to speak one's mind on these public matters.

We've been quite modest for several years past and seem willing to let things drift along as best they could. Let's snap out of it and get a little push going. Get an organization of some kind, with officers and a board of directors that mean business.

Of course it will cost some money but with the right men at the helm and by cutting out the speech-making and social festivities and spending some time boning in the interest of Grayling, we are sure to get somewhere.

Let's not get so hot on this plan as to let enthusiasm run away with judgment, but nevertheless, let's get out the biggest crowd ever seen here at a mass meeting and line up some kind of plan that is going to be permanent and effective.

Please be there, Mr. and Mrs. Citizen. This is everyone's job.

Lansing—Unlike the traditional Roosevelt luck at the White House, Frank Murphy of Michigan has been haunted by unexpected grief ever since his inaugural on New Year's Day.

The legislature has been in session for four months, yet an examination of the record will show that comparatively few administrative measures of importance have been enacted.

Warm weather and payless days are arriving. Legislators have much yet to do before they can actually "point with pride" in addresses back home.

Murphy's Jinx

Labor was given an opportunity to taste the forbidden fruit of sit-down striking to evade legal rights of property. By the time the governor concluded to exercise his state police powers and to keep labor trouble from becoming an industrial prairie fire, public opinion had "jelled" to the extent that employers and employees alike were demanding that "government do something about it."

The result was the labor relations board bill, imposing responsibilities on both labor and industry in the interest of the public.

The second stumbling block in the path of Murphy has been bickering along democratic factions. The governor has stated repeatedly that his No. 1 measure is civil service for state employees. A republican senate passed the bill, but a democratic committee refused to report it out.

House Democrats Revolt

Lack of political patronage is blamed by some house democrats. A final agreement is now in sight whereby present state employees will be exempt from a requirement of civil service examinations. It will be ear-marked "compromise"—a second choice but better than none at all.

The occupational disease bill was passed by the republican senate under leadership of Senators Hittle and Brake. As the measure did not meet the administration's ideas, a house substitute bill was prepared under direction of Rep. Joseph Murphy of Detroit. Five members of Murphy's house labor committee then proceeded to "walk out," refusing to report the revised measure to the floor.

Just about the time that Governor Murphy was ready to mediate differences among his legislators, more sit-down trouble flared. Electric power was shut down in the Saginaw valley, crippling industry and labor alike. The governor had to make a choice of the kind which he made in the Chrysler strike. And again, while the legislature consumed many hours in argument about petty differences, the governor was kept on the strike front line.

The inevitable result has been further delays. The legislative leaders are now sorrowfully admitting that the boys may be in the Lansing trenches until July 1, unless something is done quickly.

The crux of the whole situation is this: Governor Murphy's program may yet have to be saved by the republicans. Minority leaders are beginning to emphasize the fact that republicans control the senate and they must be reckoned with.

State Police

Nine banks have been robbed in Michigan since Jan. 1.

The effect has been a public discovery that the state police system is inadequate to cope with organized crime.

Admitted Commissioner Oscar G. Olander: "With less than 200 men to cover the entire state, there is not a sufficient concentration of forces in any area to cope adequately with the raids of organized gangs."

In pleading the necessity for additional troopers, the state police commissioner in effect has done his own "debunking."

"Toonerville Trolley"

Now that Tahquamenon Falls, one of the notable scenic attractions of the Upper Peninsula, have become a part of the state park system, it is inevitable that enterprising boosters will try to junk something which is novelty to many travelers—a narrow-gauge logging railroad called "The Toonerville Trolley."

The upper falls are about 200 feet wide with a 48 foot drop.

One of our most memorable vacation thrills was a wild ride down a roller-coaster logging tracks in the Flambeau National Forest in Wisconsin. We cast a one-man verdict for retention of Michigan's "Toonerville Trolley" to Tahquamenon Falls.

More Bookkeeping

Enactment of a minimum wage and maximum hour legislation in Michigan this year is likely to impose new bookkeeping worries on employers.

The senate labor committee has reported a substitute bill from that which was passed in the house.

Employers would be required to post work schedules for different shifts of women workers and minors, including a starting time, lunch period not more than four hours after starting time, and finishing time.

The result may be a clock-punching regime rivaling Charles Chaplin's "Modern Times."

Notice

A public hearing on the budget for the City of Grayling for the year July 1, 1937—July 1, 1938, will be held at the City Hall at 8 P. M., Friday, May 28, 1937.

Geo. A. Granger, City Clerk.

Achievement Day A Big Success

Sixty-five women enrolled in the Crawford County Home Extension project received Homemakers' Certificates at the first Annual Home Extension Achievement day held at the Michelson Memorial Church on Wednesday, May 26. In addition to the 65 women who completed the entire project requirements, 29 additional women were originally enrolled in the project and received some of the practical training offered by Miss Alice Hertzler, District Home Extension Agent, who had charge of the work for Crawford county. In addition to the 94 receiving the direct benefits of the Home Extension Program 110 other women were assisted in clothing problems by the members enrolled.

The practical value of the work to the homemakers of Crawford county can be estimated to some extent by the reported cash savings reported by the five groups that finished the project activities. These savings totaled $743.34.

Singing by the Grayling High School Glee club opened the Achievement Day program. Miss Eleanor Cramer, Clothing Specialist from Michigan State College, complimented the Crawford county Homemakers of their splendid achievements during their first year's work in Home Extension projects, and discussed Farm Women's Week at Michigan State College during July 25 to 30.

Miss Alice Hertzler, District Home Extension Agent, announced that the women had selected the Home Furnishing Project for their work next year.

At a brief business meeting Mrs. Earl Broadbent, county chairman, announced the following officers for next year: Chairman, Mrs. Ace Leng; Secretary-Treasurer, Mrs. Hurl Deckrow; and Recreational Leader, Mrs. M. Richmond.

In presenting the leaders with the Homemakers' Certificates for their respective groups, Arthur Glidden, County Agricultural Agent, complimented them for their co-operation which made the Home Extension Work possible in Crawford county. Miss Alice Hertzler presented the following leaders with a corsage of sweet peas, as an expression of her appreciation for their co-operation: Mrs. Velma Deckrow, Mrs. Ida Broadbent, Mrs. Florence Wakeley, Mrs. William Williams, Mrs. Roy Newberry, Mrs. Ace Leng, Mrs. Herbert Pruehs, Mrs. Emma Howse and Miss Martha Peterson.

The principal address was given by H. L. R. Chapman, Supt. of the Beal Botanical Gardens of Michigan State College. Mr. Chapman's address which dealt with the history and development of gardens, gardening and flowers, was both interesting and instructive.

Musical numbers in the form of a violin solo by Virginia Peterson, a trumpet solo by Louis Kraus, and community singing led by Miss Jessie Bath, were enjoyed by all those present.

"The Grayling" To Open Saturday

"The Grayling" restaurant, a new eating place in the city, will be opened to the public Saturday in the former Grayling Hardware building. Mrs. Sadie Bobenmoyer and Mrs. Daisy Barnett are the proprietors, and as both have long resided in Grayling they need no introduction, and as for being good cooks we believe they would be hard to excel.

The interior of the building has been entirely remodeled and renovated with a large eating room, serving room, and well-lighted kitchen. White ceilings with light tan walls and brown mahogany woodwork and furniture with touches of red, green and black in the floor covering makes the place bright and attractive. There are new electrical fixtures and the steam table, refrigerator and ice cream cabinet are the latest in restaurant equipment.

The restaurant will serve a special turkey dinner Sunday as their opening feature.

The several workmen who have turned the building into such an attractive place are Frank Serven and Carl Tahvonen, carpenter work, R. W. Collen, papering and painting, Robert Funk, electrical work and A. J. Rehkopf, plumbing. And of course all Jess Bobenmoyer has done is work day and night to help the ladies get the place in shape for the opening date.

Changing To Modern Motor Buses

A fleet of ultra-modern motor-buses will be placed in service between Detroit and Mackinaw City on the Detroit-Sault Ste. Marie Division within the next few days by the Great Lakes Motor Bus Company, according to P. L. Radcliffe, General Manager.

The Great Lakes Company recently was purchased by Eastern Michigan Motorbuses, which operates the famous Blue Goose Lines, and installation of the comfortable, up-to-date vehicles marks the first step in improving service in the northern part of the state.

Each bus seats 28 passengers and is equipped with Pullman type seats which may be reclined to a position most restful to the passenger. Attached pillows make exceptionally comfortable head rests.

A feature of the buses comprising the new fleet is the fact that the engines are mounted in the rear, eliminating noise and odor. At night the buses are well lighted, ventilation is good, and in winter the coaches will be well heated.

When the buses are placed in operation it will be the first time the Blue Goose emblem, well known as a symbol of service in Southern and Western Michigan, has been seen north of Bay City.

Passengers for points north of Mackinaw City will leave the buses at the dock, take the ferry and board another bus at St. Ignace.

"We are making important plans for improvements in service and schedules, for we believe residents in the northern part of the State will appreciate and patronize good service," said Mr. Radcliffe. "We are operating two buses north and south each day and, as people become more bus minded, we hope to improve this service."

"Our desire is to make people know that Blue Goose Lines afford safe, comfortable service, and that it is much cheaper to ride a bus than it is to drive an auto. And on a bus you avoid driving fatigue and traffic dangers."

Entertains With Delightful Reception

A very charming reception was given by Mrs. Esbern Hanson at her home Sunday afternoon, to meet her daughter, Mrs. Esbern Hanson, Jr.

The receiving line, Mrs. Esbern Hanson, Mrs. Esbern Hanson Jr., Mrs. Wm. Bohstedt and Miss Myrtle Bohstedt, stood in front of the fireplace in the living room. On the mantel over the fireplace was a huge bouquet of roses, larkspur, stock and snapdragons, the same arrangement being used in the dining room. The other rooms were brightened with appleblossoms, peonies and lilacs. The gloomy day was entirely forgotten on entering the house with its multi-colored flowers.

Guests were met in the reception hall by Mrs. Helen Routier and Miss Margrethe Bauman. In the dining room tea was served by Mrs. H. A. Bauman and Mrs. O. W. Hanson from a long table covered with a Madeira cloth and centered with an arrangement of spring flowers that was most attractive and guarded with pink tapers in silver candlesticks.

Out of town guests included Mrs. Esbern Hanson Jr., Alma; Mrs. Wm. Bohstedt, Miss Myrtle Bohstedt, Mrs. Henry Wilcox, Saginaw; Mrs. Charles Tromble, Royal Oak; Mrs. Helen Routier, Mrs. Olaf Michelson, Mrs. Alex Mason, Detroit.

SELLING MICHIGAN

It seems a paradox to say that hundreds of Michigan people were sold on Michigan for the first time last winter when tourist association officials toured the east and west coasts of Florida, showing motion pictures about Michigan.

One man from Detroit said he had never been north or west of Lansing, so reports Hugh Gray, manager of the Western Michigan Tourist and Resort association. The Detroit had been to the west coast, to Yellowstone park, to Florida, but he had never visited the northern section of Michigan or the upper peninsula!

Transcontinental Airplane Line

By remote control, James D. Burke, eleven-year-old son of Richard J. Burke, an inventor, of Pasadena, Calif., is operating the world's first and only model transcontinental airplane line. The tiny "ships" shown actually ascend about three inches above the yard-long map of the United States and can be kept stationary in the air above any city for as long as the operator desires. They land and take off with arrow-like precision. The unique affair is the result of an experiment conducted by inventor Burke in air phenomena. It is worked on an air pressure principle.

Work of Our CCC Enrolees

Four years of development work in the AuSable State Forest area by Emergency Conservation Work and the Civilian Conservation Corps will have been completed June 14, the anniversary of the establishment of CCC Camp AuSable, CCC Camp Kalkaska, located in the western extremity of the Forest, was established July 1, 1935.

Camp AuSable was first located on Indian Lake, being moved to its present permanent quarters November 29, 1933.

Forest development projects have been of principal importance in each camp. Nearly two million pine trees have been planted by CCC enrolees. Fire control and protection projects have included the construction of four bridges, 277 miles of fire-line roads, 112 miles of firebreaks, 24 miles of telephone lines, and one emergency landing field, and the expenditure of a total of three thousand man-days on fighting forest fires.

Seventeen acres of public camp and picnic grounds have been developed and equipped. Thirty-nine miles of trout streams in the area and 22 fishing lakes in the area have been improved.

White Pine Blister Rust has been eradicated on 5,200 acres of pine stands.

Much of the development work at the Grayling fish hatchery has been done by Camp AuSable, while camp Kalkaska is now completing construction of a storage building at the same location.

Other forest activities have included ground water, lineal, type and topographic, and lake surveys. The Michigan Emergency Conservation drafting room, occupying the evacuated Camp Lunden, is a part of Camp AuSable.

CCC Camp Higgins Lake, first of the State forestry camps to be established, will have completed four years of development work in the Higgins Lake State Forest area on the 26th of this month.

First located on the Hanson Military reservation, the camp was moved to its present location on US-27 midway between Roscommon and Grayling December 5, 1933. The camp program has been a varied one, including forest development, recreational development, and construction activities at the Forest Fire Experiment Station and Department of Conservation district headquarters at Roscommon.

Work at the Higgins Lake State Forest Nursery, including installation of a water system, planting, weeding, lifting, and seed extraction, has taken a total of 32,000 man-days of CCC labor. Other forest projects include 472 acres of timber stand improvement, planting nearly three million pine seedlings on more than 3,500 acres of burned-over or cut-over land, collection of 380 bushels of pine seed cones, establishment of 34 forest experimental plots, wildlife food and cover planting on 50 acres, and the improvement of the fire control system in the area.

In the latter branch of camp field work activity a fire tower has been erected, 155 miles of fireline roads and 38 miles of firebreaks constructed, 22 miles of telephone line constructed, and 2,000 man-days expended fighting forest fires.

Early in the camp history the beautiful log combination building at Higgins Lake State Park was built. Other buildings include three cement block structures at the Experiment Station, and the new Regional Headquarters building at Roscommon.

Forty-five acres of public camp and picnic grounds have been developed; three lakes totaling 2,340,000 acres improved, and 42 miles of trout streams improved, while two million game fish have been planted in nearby waters. Deer trapping, tagging, and transportation has been another camp project.

FIRST AID TO THE AILING HOUSE

By Roger B. Whitman

PREVENTING PAINT FROM PEELING

A FRIEND recently wrote me of trouble with peeling paint:

"On the east wall of my house there is a small window of a bathroom with a flat frame four inches wide. The surface is practically flush with the stucco. Within two years after that frame was painted for the first time, the paint began to peel, and it has continued to peel after each repainting."

He wants to know where the trouble lies; why paint should peel on that particular window frame, and nowhere else.

The most usual cause for the peeling of paint is moisture in the wood. On a dry and warm day, the moisture is drawn out through the surface and breaks the paint away from the wood. With this in mind, my friend's problem is to find out how moisture gets into the wood. Until he does so, paint on that frame will continue to peel.

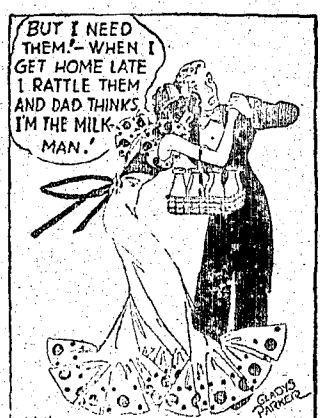

One possibility is that moisture enters the wood from inside. Being a bathroom window, steam and moisture in the room air may easily be responsible. In that case much or all of the trouble can be averted by giving all of the inside parts of the window two coats of high quality spar varnish, or one coat of aluminum paint followed by spar varnish or enamel.

As the window is on an east wall, it is exposed to the drive of easterly storms. A heavy wind forces water into any cracks there may be, no matter how fine. Quite possibly the window frame does not make an absolutely tight joint with the stucco. Again, a window on the floor above may be responsible, or a crack in the upper part of the wall. Water entering a wall runs down inside until it strikes a crosspiece of the frame; there it collects, and soaks into the back of the outer surface of the wall. I have known water that entered a wall around a second story window frame to show itself through the blistering and peeling of paint as much as twelve feet to one side. For this, of course, the diagonal timbers of the frame were responsible.

Paint also peels on sappy and resinous wood, although this is so well known that wood of that kind should have special treatment before being painted. But as moisture in the wood is the most common cause of peeling, it is this that should be looked for in the event of that particular trouble.

The Money Flow

(Following is the text of a talk by Mr. William J. Cameron of the Ford Motor Company delivered on the Ford Sunday Evening Hour over Columbia Broadcasting System from Detroit at 8 P. M. EST, Sunday, May 23.)

Friends of the Sunday Evening Hour:

Money rouses less emotional interest and less of it is actually seen in a big industry than almost anywhere else on earth. It sometimes appears so low in the scale of usefulness, that even were it physically present in heaps of silver and bills it would hardly rank in importance with a pile of coal or a dock full of ore. Industry can be conceived as going along without money but not without ore and coal. The only intelligent thrill one can extract from money is in considering its ceaseless flow and the good it effects in its course. It is like the stream that turns the mill wheel and passes on, and, as in nature the water returns again in rain, so in the economy of work the money returns to all who previously earned and spent it. The only possible answer to the question, "Where does the money go?" is that "It just keeps on going."

We had a glimpse of this at Dearborn last week. The man whose job is to pay the bills remarked to the man whose job is to buy the materials, "Well, we have to pay out $43,000,000 on the 20th for you." Of course, checks go out daily, but the 20th happened to be a "heavy" day. These checks for materials go to 6,943 other employers who supply us with what we need and who in their turn employ several million men. Every day is pay-day for Ford employees too; it is impossible to pay all our 122,000 shopmen at one time. The pay office requires two weeks to make the rounds, at the rate of $840,000 a day; $9,200,000 for each pay period; $18,500,000 a month, for wages alone. And none of it is seen or handled except by the pay office and the men who receive it.

Last month Ford checks for materials went to 45 of the 48 states. Each of seventeen states received sums ranging from one million to 26 million dollars. Each of four states received from half a million to one million dollars. Three states each received between a quarter and a half million. The rest received a quarter of a million dollars or less. And, naturally, each state paid part of that for supplies from other states. The total for the month's dollars, was used by our nearly 7,000 suppliers to pay their workmen and their material bills. For it must be remembered that those who supply us have their suppliers too. One of our suppliers deals with 3,711 manufacturers who supply him; another with 1,050; another with 729—and so on. All one can see of the money is its endless flow from buyer to seller, which constantly makes the buyer a seller with wages all along the line.

The mention of large sums of money often causes people to wonder what they would do if they had it. The answer is that if it came to them by honest industry there would be little choice what to do with it. They would first have to pay it out before they could receive it at all, and then, if everything worked well, it would return to them; but, in order to keep everything working well, they would immediately have to pay it out again—that is the way the world is made. Money is just part of a mechanical round. Our basic wealth is the life that money helps to support. The sales department announces that it will need next month, say, 100,000 cars. The purchasing department proceeds to buy material to make those cars. The distributing department pays for that material. The money goes back to every community that contributed in any way to the manufacture of the cars—and that means farms, forests, mines, shops, mills, oil wells, railroads, ship lines and laboratories over all the land. It would be difficult to name anything our industry does not use. We buy everything from straw to radium. The money for this comes from everywhere and goes back everywhere.

"Yes," some wisecracks say, "and plenty of it sticks that never comes back." Well, we often wish that everyone could have a grandstand seat overlooking the whole industrial process, to see how far such a remark is true. In the ordinary run of business the Ford factories, considered as an investment, ought to yield private dividends of many millions of dollars a year. As a matter of fact, in 33 prosperous years less has been taken out of the Ford business than has been taken out of some other concerns in two depression years. It makes hard-fisted money-makers wonder why Henry Ford is in business at all. Those who know him are sure that the principal satisfaction he gets out of his business, and he gets plenty of it too, is the satisfaction of seeing his production ideas work out in the interest of the public and his men. Plain people very readily understand that; the exceedingly clever often find it a bit difficult to grasp.

Money figures are useful in showing which way we are going as a nation, and for the first four months of 1937 they are reassuring. In the first quarter of this year the Ford Motor Company spent for materials 271 millions, as against 199 millions for the first quarter of last year, and 70½ millions for wages as against 54 millions for the first quarter of last year. Always remembering that materials, in the last analysis, are wages, this is a substantial increase in general benefit. The country would seem to be making some progress in spite of the numerous and costly hindrances that have been put in its way.

PIKE HAS BULLDOG QUALITIES

Because great northern pike have natural "bulldog" qualities at birth and affix themselves tenaciously to the nearest object, Drayton Plains hatchery station at Pontiac has encountered difficulties in running Michigan's first large-scale hatching experiment with that species.

Approximately 475,000 eggs of the great northern pike, which is becoming one of Michigan's leading attractions to the tourist-fisherman, were obtained for use of the hatchery. The eggs were placed in jars for incubation according to the technique used for wall-eyed pike and whitefish eggs.

But the great northern fry refused to swim after hatching. Instead they attached themselves with their mouths to the interior sides of the hatchery jars and just hung on. A. T. Stewart, hatchery superintendent, transferred the fry to trays set in running water. The fish attached themselves to the sides of the trays.

These actions in great northern pike fry are perfectly normal, however, since at hatching, sometimes in streams or other waters where currents are strong, the baby fish affix themselves to grasses and vegetation until the nutriment of the egg sacs is exhausted at which time they become free-swimming and forage for themselves.

The eggs hatched here are being used merely as an experiment for the development of incubation technique. Great northern pike are voracious predators and if produced for stocking purposes would be planted only in selected waters where more popular kinds of fishing locally, such as bluegill and black bass fishing, would not be impaired by the planting.

A DAY WITH SAUCES

SAUCE making is an art, for many dishes are made by the addition of a well-seasoned and appropriate sauce. The use of flour thickening sauces is liked by the majority of cooks, though cornstarch makes a more delicate and smooth sauce. Its only drawback is it needs good cooking to remove the raw taste of the starch. When using cornstarch for thickening, mix it with a little cold water, milk or fruit juice and add to the hot liquid; then it will cook smoothly. Use half as much cornstarch as flour, if the recipe calls for flour. For pudding and other dessert sauces, one may follow the recipe and have good results, provided that the base of the sauce is properly made.

A delicious sauce which may be used with duck, goose, turkey, game or chicken is:

Brown Orange Sauce.

Take two cupfuls of meat stock or two cans of bouillon, or two teaspoonfuls of vegetable extract of bouillon, or three bouillon cubes in two cupfuls of water. Season the stock with one-half teaspoonful each of white pepper and paprika, a dash of cayenne, one cupful of orange juice, two oranges, pulp and slice of rind. Cook five minutes. Take from the fire and stand a few minutes. Brown two tablespoonfuls of flour, add the butter and brown, then blend well until smooth. Add to the stock slowly, stirring all the time. Return to a double boiler and cook, beating occasionally with an egg beater. Add one-half cupful of white grapes skinned and seeded.

With these two sauces, white and brown, one may make thousands of sauces suitable to serve on salads, desserts, fritters, and dishes without number.

A most delightful sauce to serve on buttered toast in place of the usual cream or milk toast is:

Celery Sauce.

Cut the celery into small pieces and cook in boiling water, using as little as possible. Drain, reserving the water. Now prepare the ordinary white sauce, using one and one-half tablespoonfuls each of flour and butter, add the reserved liquid and enough rich milk to make a cupful, cook until smooth, adding salt to season. Add the cooked celery, a dash of paprika, and let stand over hot water to keep hot after cooking well. Just before serving add one egg yolk beaten with half a cupful of thick cream, stir and cook long enough to cook the egg.

The Making of Opinion

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

MANKIND'S opinions mould the world—

Not long orations loudly hurled
From some high place (though men may wonder).

They seldom understand the thunder,
Not lines like these, that would possess

Not truth as much as cleverness—
But those opinions that go creeping
Through lands like mighty waters sleeping.

For all our reasoning and time
Must stand one test, the test of time.
The thing we shout, men, too, will shout it,
And then sit down and think about it.

Will measure it with common sense,
Compare it with experience,
And, even though today they cheer
us,
Tomorrow may decline to hear us.

Speech is a spark that glows in air,
A time our eyes attracting there,
And written words are very clever
(Millions are written, few forever),
But when the flame has died away
Men look at things, and look by day.
And form opinions that are fairer
Than scribbled wit or shouted error.

Socrates on Trial
When Socrates was on trial, with the penalty, as he well knew, of death if found guilty, he gave a lecture, not a defense, when it came time to speak in his behalf. He declared fearlessly that if it was required of him to state how the public in justice ought to treat him, he could only say that they ought to recognize him as a public benefactor and maintain him at the state's expense, for he had spent his whole life in the service of his country.

WINS WRISTWATCH

Mrs. Earl Madsen, who resides on the AuSable, recently was the winner of a lovely wristwatch in a Woodbury's toilet goods contest.

Listening in on the Woodbury radio hour over station WXYZ, Mrs. Madsen decided to enter the "Follow the Moon" contest. First she had to buy 3 cakes of Woodbury's soap and mail in the coupons and finish the sentence they gave. "I like Woodbury's soap best for my skin because..." Having done this within a few days she and her friends were amazed at hearing her name broadcast over this station as winner of a Longines diamond wristwatch.

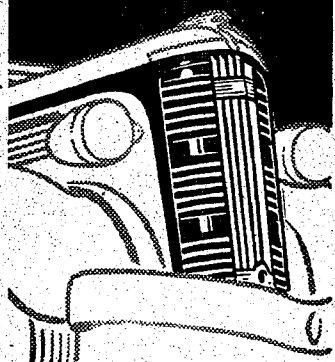

On entering the contest the name of the clerk or dealer from whom she purchased the soap was to be given and this was Earl Dawson of the A. & P. store, who has also received a wristwatch.

News By Nosey

Last summer Mr. Smith III and Mr. Redhead did a fine job of covering a lot of down river news and their column was clever and interesting, but they left out a very important part of the river—Shaw's Park.

My! My! The activity that is going on there now! Trucks tearing up the road—well yes, they did that too, but I meant tearing up and down with building supplies. They all get stuck and everybody laughs and gets out his shovel and fixes the road. Each one, of course, fixed it differently and with all the different ideas on road construction we now have quite a road; in fact no one would believe there were so many different ideas on road building, after putting them all into effect on a small stretch of road, that there would be any road—I mean one would expect there to be left only ideas.

Enough of the road business only to say, the reason they tore up the road was in a good cause. Cabins and cabins are being built, boat houses, out houses—Oh everything is being built. I guess Jim Bailly really started all this when he began his lovely log cabin; can we call it a cabin? Well Jim and his wife Jessie do, so we will—but anyway, what Jim did I guess about everyone else wanted to do. You should see this cabin; everything about it is perfection—the darling balcony, even the bedrooms, which accommodate four persons, sleeping, I mean. If the Bailly's guests can sleep on those gay green mattresses and lavender springs and lovely Hudson Bay blankets; Then the cedar furniture throughout. Everything matches everything, has been given the most thoughtful attention. Mr. Campbell and his wife resided in the Peterson cabin all winter while Mr. Campbell worked on the cabin.

I believe our own local Mr. Earl Nelson also had a big hand in the building. Mrs. Campbell would resent my saying she resided up here for I believe she thought she merely existed. It did get pretty lonely for her, but she was a good sport and her little granddaughter was lots of company. Anyway we got the Bailly cabin done and it's pronounced perfect by all who see it and I'll bet there will be gay times and many good eats there this summer if the gorgeous stove and red enamel kitchenware have anything to do about it. Not to mention the tiny frail glasses with little figures on them. This combined with what I have already experienced with the Baillys hospitality will make one of the most attractive as well as most pleasant places along the river.

Then in contrast to Jim Bailly's cabin comes, right on the next lot remember, an adorable cabin built by Walter Shaw. You all know Walt, but did you know of his artistic ability? I have seen a little of it before but he has let himself go in the building of Ned and Pat's cabin—Ned and Pat Wicks, of course. The arrangement of logs and the low structure of the whole building is lovely. In my mind this is the most attractive small cabin along the river. I have not seen them all so I hope no one objects, at least this is only my opinion. Perhaps I can get the low down from Pat on her mattresses and kitchenware pottery. At present the cabin is still unfinished, altho Walter has put it up in record time and made a most artistic job of it. I understand he is to build some furniture for it. If he does and it is as un-

DOING OVER A WORN VARNISHED FLOOR

WEAR on a floor first shows at doorways. That is where a varnish finish first gives out. With the varnish on the rest of the floor in good condition, the worn place can be patched. The first move is to go over it with sandpaper, and then to wipe with a cloth damp with turpentine to take up all traces of dust. Varnishing of the worn spot should begin in the middle, with the varnish brushed toward the edges. In this way the edge of the patch should not show; if it does, the joint can be lightly rubbed with fine sandpaper. When this coat is hard, a second coat should be put on in the same way.

Should the varnish on a floor appear dingy, although not worn through, a single thin coat of varnish all over will restore its freshness. Before varnishing, the floor should be washed. A floor should be washed in sections—not all over at one time. Thick suds of a pure soap should first be used, followed by clean cloths damp with clear water to remove all traces of the soap. A washed section should then be wiped dry and washing continued on an adjoining section. A wood floor should not be flooded with water; in washing, no more water should be used than necessary. Even so, some water will soak in, and a washed floor should have at least twenty-four hours drying before being varnished.

Good quality floor varnish should be used; inexpensive varnishes will quickly scratch and wear. A can of varnish should not be shaken or violently stirred, for either of these will produce air bubbles in the varnish that will mar the finished job. Beginning at one wall, the section should be varnished to the other wall, and then, returning to the start, the next width of strips should be varnished in the same way. Varnish should be applied with a fairly full brush, and should always be brushed in straight strokes. Varnish is spread forward by carrying the brush in straight strokes over the same place until an entire brushful is spread in a thin coat.

With quick drying varnish, and if all of the furniture can be moved out, a floor can be given two coats of varnish in a day. Otherwise, the furniture should be moved to half the room while the other half of the floor is being varnished. This half should be finished before the furniture is moved back, to permit the varnishing of the rest of the floor.

Varnishing should always begin across the room from a doorway, so that the worker can get out without harming the work.

Wrote "Hail Columbia"

The ballad "Hail Columbia" was written by Joseph Hopkinson, son of Francis, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Joseph was a jurist, a native of Philadelphia, born November 12, 1770. He died there January 15, 1842. He composed it in the year 1798 for the benefit of an actor named Fox, after an air entitled "The President's March," which had been written by a German named Teyles, on the occasion of General Washington's first visit to a theater at New York in 1793.

usual and attractive as the cabin, I'm sure it will be lovely.

There is lots more going on which perhaps I can report later.

Grant Shaw is also tearing up the road with trucks—Something is going on down there besides plain hotel business and I guess he has plenty of that. I'll try and find out about it and let you know later.

Groups from thirteen schools will participate in this musical event. The singing of all the glee clubs will be criticized. Grayling will be competing with such schools as Petoskey, Cheboygan, and Traverse City, as well as several smaller schools.

Baseball Playoff Friday

With the high school baseball season nearing an end, an odd situation has developed in the standings of the various teams.

In the Northern Division Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix are in a three-way tie for the lead, while in the Southern Division, Grayling and Gaylord are also tied. This means a playoff in both divisions before the final playoff takes place.

This Friday finds Gaylord and Grayling tangling at the Kalkaska diamond at 4:00 for the right to play in the finals Decoration Day.

The winner of the Northern division will be decided this week end also as Boyne City and East Jordan played Wednesday, with the winner meeting Charlevoix Friday.

The finals will be held at 2:30 May 31st, at either Gaylord or Grayling, depending on the winner of the Southern division playoff. A charge of 10c and 25c is being made for the semi-final and championship games.

With the Biology Class

The Biology classes have also been studying milk and water supplies in regard to health. Samples of water from the AuSable, private pumps, and the city water supply, were sent to the Michigan State Department of Health to be tested. A report has just been received and all samples were reported as being satisfactory for drinking purposes.

Mr. Jonkowski, Chief Dairy Inspector for the State of Michigan, spoke to the 9th grade biology classes and the 8th grade science class on Monday, May 24.

Mr. Jonkowski stressed the importance of dairy products as a food, especially to growing children. During his talk he pointed out the merits of pasteurized milk and discussed the process in some detail. A considerable part of his talk with the classes consisted in answering questions presented by the class on pasteurization.

Mr. Meyer of the Couzens Fund introduced Mr. Jonkowski. Mr. Meyer also spoke briefly on pasteurization and the Schick test.

The 9th Grade Biology classes are studying the development of an animal, using chickens as an example because they are so easily observed during the developmental stages.

The eggs were placed in an incubator beginning May 10 and one egg has been opened every day for each class since that time. The fresh eggs showed only a tiny spot which would later have developed into a chick.

After one day of incubation "the chick" or embryo, as it is called, showed only as a tiny opaque streak floating on top of the yolk.

The second day's incubation showed the embryo developed still farther. A tiny, beating heart was clearly visible with blood vessels running over the yolk.

The third day's development showed a larger heart, more blood vessels, evidences of what would later become the eyes, the legs and the wings.

Five days development show-

"Best Man" in Hungary

In Hungary it is possible to hire a professional "best man." He will take care of all details of the ceremony—for a fee. A "professional" as best man is just about as far from the original role as is the north pole from the south. Back in early Saxon days, the bride knight, or best man, was the most faithful friend of the husband-to-be. He had to be for his duty was either to kidnap the bride or fight off her relatives while the prospective husband made off with her. Only friendship of the most enduring type could buy such services.

THE DIAL OF LIFE

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

WE FIND it easy to forget
The songs we heard,
We find it easy to remember
The faithless friend, the fading ember.

Yet memories are things to choose,
This to recall and that refuse,
Make each delight or each disaster
Either our servant or our master.

Yes, we who turn the dial of life
Need not remember care and strife,
The tawdry tune, the tinny meter,
For there are other programs sweeter.

We know that other things life has
Than jumbles of discordant jazz.
We turn the dial, and very near it
Pick up a tune that lifts the spirit.

And thoughts are things we may control
To help or hurt the listening soul.
Tune out the sad, tune in the pleasant.
Tune out the past, tune in the present.

Yes, so may one control the mind,
Tune out the mean, tune in the kind,
Old ills forgetting and forgiving,
Only the lovely things re-living.
